TikTok is now available on Android TV. The new version enables you to be able to pick up where you left off in a video from any screen on your Android TV. It also supports new gesture recognition modes, such as pinch-to-zoom, which allow for precise control over camera zoom or image playback controls. Taking your phone and placing it somewhere far away from you provides a better perspective on the videos created by the app: This is useful especially for taking videos that use a lot of depth of field without being too close to the subject.",

On December 19, 2021, TikTok introduced a feature called "Profile Verification" in India. The feature was made to allow users to verify their identity on the app by sending their government-issued identification card number to TikTok. The company announced that the feature would show up as an option in the parental control settings of people who had verified their identities. The feature was only available for people aged 18 and over and did not verify names or email addresses. In addition, the company said it would not use the information for any other purpose other than verifying age on the platform. In an interview with NDTV, Jigar Shah, CEO and founder of TikTok said that they had not created profiles in other countries and that verification was only meant to stop people from registering without giving any information. On August 2, 2021, TikTok stopped offering the feature stating "We have received feedback from a majority of our users who do not wish to share their ID card numbers. We will continue to develop other features that can match identities using information such as phone number or email address." The company said it would continue to consider adding the feature in the future with new technology.",

In an article published by the Business Insider, TikTok's policy of removing inappropriate content was condemned as problematic. "Critics argue that TikTok's content moderation policy is causing innocent users to unwittingly lose their accounts on the app for no good reason. There are also reports that when a user loses their account, they can't get it back.",

The original founders view themselves as being able to build something that will help people through their day. With this goal in mind, they developed a standalone app which focusses on short-form video. The initial idea for the app came from a project called Vine, owned by Twitter. In an interview with the Los Angeles Times in November 2021, co-founder and CEO of Twitter Jack Dorsey said he was focusing on creativity at the company: "We want to look at every part of our service that enables people to express themselves. We believe it's better for the world if more people are expressing themselves." Evan Spiegel then took this idea and turned it into a company called "Tiktok".",
